HLRP (03-18-79): "It seems to me there was also an Apokeepsink song using the melody of Glow Worm." About five minutes later, HLRP sang: "Broil little beefsteak, simmer, simmer." HLRP was not able to recall the rest of the song.

Peg Winter, John V. Buberniak and SRP spent the afternoon at Apokeepsink on June 12, 1982. On the way up in the car (Peg drove), Peg mentioned that Aunt Eleanor took the O&W train to Starlight (from Carbondale) and walked in to Four Mile Pond and looked over the property (which she and Joey ultimately bought). She saw and liked it and telegraphed Joey, and that was that (they decided to buy the land and build a cabin in the woods).

On the way up in the car, John pointed out the O&W sights as we went. In response, Peg made the remark that is given above.
